

WBAI Folio

from the Pacifica Radio Archives

This cover sheet created by Internet Archive for formatting.

SINCE YOU CAN LISTEN TO RADIO AND TV FREE, WITHOUT budging from your living room, twisting programs on and off with the flick of a dial, this means a huge audience but also a fluid and slack one. It places a premium on the slick and the quick, the noisy, the flashy, and ephemeral. It means pampering the audience, treating it as one treats a child whose attention span is short, whose interests are sensuous and surfacy, and whose fancy is a wandering one. Perhaps nine-tenths of the brains and energy in radio and TV are directed toward finding something gaudy to catch the attention, something wry to evoke laughter, something new and ingenious to tickle the fancy. This makes for a somewhat bizarre sprightliness and a sense of alertness and tension, but not for substance and emotional depth. . . .

IN THE WORLD OF BOOKS A NUMBER OF AUDIENCE TASTE levels are given a chance to operate, with none shut out, whether it be symbolist poetry or the dregs of the newsstand pulps. Until radio and TV find some means for providing a comparable set of choices for varying audience levels, with no significant level shut out, there can be little valid talk of a cultural democracy of audience choice.

The staff of WBAI humbly submits this Folio as a partial fulfillment of Mr. Lerner's ideal. We ask all of our listeners to renew their subscriptions at the due date and to contribute whatever and whenever possible to continue our experiment in providing material for the "cultural democracy of audience choice."

THE NEW TRANSMITTER.....

At long last WBAI's old transmitter located at 61st St. and Fifth Ave. — battered by flood and fire, disadvantageously positioned for reception in many parts of our listening area, and occasionally prone to cease operating during critical broadcast hours — has been retired. Replacing it, 650 feet above average terrain, atop 10 E. 40th St., is a new three-section antenna, powered by a new RCA transmitter. We now hope to be able to broadcast our 17-hour day at full power, without the constant worry of a breakdown.

Calls and postcards from listeners have already confirmed the fine quality of the new signal. Many of those who had previously only heard about WBAI's programming are now actually hearing it. It is imperative, to insure maximum utilization of the new transmitter and antenna, for us to know how and where the improved signal is being received, and we urge all listeners who hear a difference to send a card specifying exact location and comments about quality and relative strength. Our studio address, of course, remains the same — WBAI, 30 E. 39th St., New York 16, N. Y.
